Overview of the Black Ops Zombies Moon Map

The Black Ops Zombies Moon map is set on the surface of the Moon, introducing a stark contrast to the traditional zombie maps that take place on Earth. This map was first introduced in the downloadable content pack for Call of Duty: Black Ops and quickly became a fan favorite due to its innovative design and atmospheric setting. Players must navigate a lunar base, complete with scientific research facilities, a space station, and a rocket pad. The environment is not only visually distinct but also impacts gameplay significantly due to the low gravity and open spaces.

With its unique setting, the Moon map challenges players to adapt their usual zombie strategies. The map includes several new enemy types, a complex layout, and a variety of interactive elements that require teamwork and planning. Moreover, the map's design emphasizes survival tactics that differ from other Black Ops Zombies maps, making it an essential experience for any Zombies enthusiast.

Gameplay Mechanics Unique to the Moon Map

The Black Ops Zombies Moon map features several gameplay mechanics that set it apart from other maps in the Zombies series. The most notable mechanic is the low-gravity environment, which affects player movement, zombie behavior, and weapon handling. Players experience floaty jumps and slower falls, which can be both advantageous and hazardous when navigating the map or escaping zombies.

Low Gravity Effects

Low gravity on the Moon map allows players to perform higher jumps and longer airtime, which can be used strategically to evade zombies or reach otherwise inaccessible areas. However, this also means that players must adjust their aiming and timing as projectiles and melee attacks behave differently in this environment. Zombies are also affected by the low gravity, moving more slowly but being harder to hit due to their altered movement patterns.

Oxygen Management

Another unique mechanic on the Moon map is oxygen management. Players must monitor their oxygen levels while exploring the lunar surface, as exposure to the vacuum without a helmet results in suffocation. Oxygen tanks and helmets are scattered throughout the map, and maintaining access to these is crucial for survival. This element adds an extra layer of challenge and realism, requiring players to plan their routes and resource usage carefully.

Zombies and Enemy Variants

The Moon map introduces unique enemy types such as the Space Monkeys, which behave differently from traditional zombies. They can jump high and attack players in unpredictable ways. Additionally, the map includes the standard zombies, as well as the powerful Nova Crawlers and the aggressive Space Troopers. Each enemy requires distinct tactics, making the gameplay more varied and engaging.

Weapons and Equipment on Moon

Players on the Black Ops Zombies Moon map have access to an array of weapons and equipment designed to complement the unique lunar environment. The weapon selection includes both classic and new firearms, as well as special equipment that helps players combat the diverse zombie threats effectively.

Signature Weapons

One of the standout weapons on the Moon map is the Wave Gun, a powerful energy weapon that fires a beam capable of killing zombies instantly. This weapon is particularly useful for crowd control due to its high damage and unique firing mechanism. The Pack-a-Punch machine allows players to upgrade their weapons, enhancing their damage, ammo capacity, and adding special effects.

Equipment and Traps

The map features several deployable traps such as the Sentry Gun and the Lunar Lander trap, which can be strategically placed to defend choke points. Additionally, players can use the Jet Gun, a weapon that shoots a jet of flame, effective against groups of zombies. These tools are essential for managing waves and controlling the battlefield.

Wall Buys and Mystery Box Locations

Weapons can be acquired through Wall Buys scattered around the map or by using the Mystery Box, which randomly provides powerful firearms and equipment. Knowing the locations of these points is critical for maintaining a well-rounded arsenal throughout the game.

Perks Available in the Moon Map

Perks play a vital role in the Black Ops Zombies Moon map, providing players with enhancements that improve survivability and combat effectiveness. Several Perks are exclusive or have altered effects due to the lunar setting.

New Perks Introduced

The Moon map introduces the Perk-a-Cola known as "PhD Flopper," which grants players protection from explosive damage and causes an explosive effect upon diving to prone. This perk is especially useful in the Moon's open spaces where explosives are commonly used to manage large groups of zombies.

Classic Perks with Lunar Adjustments

Traditional Perks such as Juggernog, Speed Cola, and Double Tap Root Beer are present, but their effects are influenced by the Moon's unique physics. For example, Speed Cola enhances reload speed, which can be crucial when managing weapons in low gravity, while Juggernog increases health, a necessity when facing the aggressive enemies of the Moon map.

Obtaining Perks

Perks are purchased from machines located in various sections of the map. Securing these machines early and protecting them is a key strategy for long-term survival. Some Perk machines require players to complete specific challenges or navigate hazardous areas, adding to the map's complexity.

Moon Map Easter Eggs and Secrets

The Black Ops Zombies Moon map is renowned for its intricate Easter eggs and hidden secrets, offering players additional objectives and rewards beyond mere survival. These Easter eggs often involve complex sequences, teamwork, and exploration.

Primary Easter Egg Quest

The main Easter egg involves activating the rocket launch sequence and ultimately escaping the Moon base. This quest requires players to collect multiple items, solve puzzles, and defeat powerful zombie bosses. Completing the Easter egg rewards players with unique cutscenes and achievements, making it a highly sought-after challenge.

Hidden Areas and Secret Items

The map contains several hidden rooms and secret items, such as the Lunar Lander and special weapon upgrades. Exploring these areas can provide tactical advantages or unlock bonus content. Many secrets are guarded by traps or require precise timing, encouraging players to explore thoroughly and work together.

Challenges and Achievements

Besides the main Easter egg, the Moon map includes various challenges that test player skills, such as surviving a certain number of rounds or using specific weapons to kill enemies. Achieving these milestones unlocks in-game rewards and contributes to player progression.

Strategies for Surviving the Moon Map

Surviving the Black Ops Zombies Moon map demands a combination of careful planning, teamwork, and mastery of the map's unique mechanics. Players must adapt their strategies to the low-gravity environment and the diverse array of enemies.

Effective Teamwork and Communication

Due to the complexity and difficulty of the Moon map, coordinating with teammates is essential. Sharing resources, covering different areas, and timing attacks can greatly increase the chances of survival. Communication ensures that players can manage oxygen supplies, revive downed teammates, and execute the Easter egg quests efficiently.

Resource Management

Managing ammo, Perks, and oxygen is critical on the Moon map. Players should prioritize obtaining essential Perks early and use powerful weapons strategically to conserve ammunition. Additionally, keeping an eye on oxygen levels and replenishing tanks timely prevents sudden deaths in hazardous environments.

Utilizing the Map Layout

Understanding the map's layout, including safe zones, teleporters, and trap locations, allows players to navigate efficiently and create defensive positions. Using traps and environmental hazards to control zombie movement can conserve resources and reduce pressure during higher rounds.

1. Secure key Perks early to enhance survivability.
2. Use low gravity to evade zombies and reach advantageous positions.
