Understanding San Jose Bulky Item Pickup Services

San Jose bulky item pickup services are designed to assist residents in disposing of large household and commercial items that are not accepted in regular trash collection. These services are typically offered by the city's waste management department or authorized contractors. The goal is to provide a convenient, safe, and environmentally responsible way to remove bulky waste such as old furniture, appliances, and other large objects that require special handling.

How Bulky Item Pickup Works

Residents can schedule a pickup by contacting the city's waste management service or using online platforms provided by San Jose. After scheduling, residents must place the bulky items at the curb or designated pickup area on the scheduled collection day. The waste management team then collects and transports the items to appropriate recycling or disposal facilities.

Importance of Using Official Pickup Services

recyclable materials diverted from landfills, supporting the city's sustainability goals.

Placement Guidelines

Items must be placed at the curb or designated pickup location by the specified time and should not block sidewalks, driveways, or streets. Items left in prohibited areas may not be collected and could result in fines.

Prohibited Materials
