This approach allows for a personalized and meaningful outcome rather than a random assignment.

Question Types and Format

Common question topics include social interaction levels, preferred activity types, comfort zones, and emotional expression. The format is designed to be user-friendly and quick, usually completing within 5 to 10 minutes.

How Results Are Determined

Results are calculated by weighting answers according to predefined personality models that correlate with animal traits. For example, a person who enjoys solitude and calm environments might
